Math

Kara loves math. For fun, she finished up Singapore 1B in February and so I bought her a second grade math book (Dorling Kindersley) which she has been happily working through. She understands multiplication and is working on getting the facts memorized as she continues to practice the concepts. She has also started doing a bit of division. She taught herself to tell time recently as well.

Science

Kara enjoys the science at school and finds the experiments to be a lot of fun.

History

Kara listens and discusses SOTW with us at home. I try to check out picture books on the topics for more of a visual understanding. She is slowly connecting more with history, but it isn't her favorite subject.

Language Arts

We are working through the First Language Lessons book. She seems to understand the different parts of a sentence, so I am skipping forward a bit through the book. Because she started at school later in the year, she isn't very far along in FLL.

She likes to memorize the poems that are assigned and is proud of this accomplishment.

Kara is also reviewing phonics lessons through the Phonics Museum program.

She enjoys reading and writing.

Fine Arts

Kara takes dance classes and did a session of Monart drawing. She enjoys art and will often create her own projects – making cards, little books, painting, just drawing and coloring. She was inspired by the Folding class to do more origami and folding projects.

Physical Education

We are hoping to spend more consistent time outside with spring here. For now, her exercise is occasional park days and walks and 3 dance classes a week.

Spelling/Handwriting

Kara does Italic handwriting and some copywork. For spelling, we do simple spelling bees on the white boards based on words she is using and reading frequently.

Electives

Kara takes Spanish which she enjoys. She also took the American Girl and Boy Academy Class and the Folding Academy Class.
